IN A NEW FAIR DEAL

A. O. MASON SELLS ENTIRE INTEREST IN FAIR ASSOCIATION

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

B. F. Swaggard of Kansas City and Wm. Haneey of St. Joseph, Purchasers—J. F. Roelofson Head

With the sale and transfer of his entire holdings, stock and interest in the Nodaway County Fair Association yesterday to Benjamin Franklin Swaggard of Kansas City and William Haneey of St. Joseph, A. O. Mason, president and manager, retires from any connection with the association and the control and management of the Nodaway County Fair is now in the hands of Maryville business men, the board of directors having chosen new officers immediately following the consummation of the deal. The new officials are J. F. Roelofson, president and manager; George B. Baker, treasurer; Harve Bainum, secretary. With the completion of the deal arrangements were at once made by the new board of directors for improvements and repairs at the grounds preparatory to getting the property in shape for a real, worth-while fair this fall.

By the terms of the sale Mr. Mason was paid $17,100 for his stock in the association, retiring from any participation in its affairs or any part in the management. Under the agreement made by the new stockholders the Nodaway County Fair Association becomes practically a Nodaway county institution, as both Mr. Swaggard and Mr. Haneey declined to become officials and only accepted places on the board of directors, the sole management and direction being left in the hands of local men.

"We want it understood," said Mr. Swaggard last night, when asked about the management of the association, "that the fair is to be a community affair for the benefit and interest of the people. We want them to take an interest in it and the new directors and officers will welcome any suggestions and advice that will make it the best county fair in the state. It's Nodaway county's fair, and we want you to take it and run it. We want to make it a fair in which everybody in this county and in the surrounding counties can take a personal interest and we propose to see that none but the best attractions are secured and that exhibitors and patrons are pleased with the treatment that we will offer them."

Said Mr. Haneey: "We are going to make repairs and improvements on grounds and buildings that will add to their appearance and provide comfort and conveniences for exhibitors and ——— We can't do it all at once, but we are going to do as much as we can this summer so that the grounds will be in shape for the fall fair. The track will be put in first class shape in anticipation of some first class racing, for we are now members of the North Missouri Racing Circuit, which includes five weeks of high class speed events with $12,000 in guaranteed purses. King City, Green City and Pattonsburg are the other towns in the circuit, with the Bethany fair following the week after the Nodaway county fair. We want the people to be pleased," continued Mr. Haneey, "and also to feel that it is their fair. Mr. Swaggard and myself have turned it over to local business men and will only have a voice

210 YOUNG MEN ANSWER CALL OF GOVERNMENT TO REGISTER

THE NUMBER IS SOMEWHAT UNDER THE ESTIMATES MADE, DUE TO THE LARGE NUMBER OF VOLUNTEERS — MEN ARE A FINE CLASS AND ARE PHYSICALLY FIT

Two hundred and ten young men of Nodaway county answered the call of their government yesterday to register for military service. The number registered is somewhat under the estimate made by the draft board members some time ago due to the fact a large number of men under twenty-one have enlisted. Board members were unanimous in declaring that yesterday's registrants were, with few exceptions, practically all physically fit for classification in Class 1.

As soon as the local board checked up last night the results were telegraphed to Lieut. Col. J. H. McCord at Jefferson City. The men who registered yesterday will receive their questionnaires in about ten days, according to plans previously announced. Men in Class 1 will be placed at the bottom of the list.

A method of determining precedence on the lists for the new registrants has not yet been announced.

The new registrants are as follows:

HAS U-BOAT BEEN CAPTURED?

Reports Reaching New York Are Sought to be Confirmed by Naval Officers of the District

An Atlantic Port, June 6.—Reports of the capture of a German submarine off this port reached here today and every effort is being made by naval officers of the first district to secure its confirmation.

Washington, June 6. — Convinced that the German submarines which have been operating off the Jersey coast are now headed south into the lanes taken by vessels from the West Indies and the Gulf of Mexico, the navy department is taking special precautions to protect the shipping in that vicinity and also to take steps to prevent damage by mines which have been laid along the routes which the U-boats now seem to have abandoned. Meanwhile the movement of men and supplies overseas is proceeding exactly on schedule and every possible precaution is being taken to protect shipping.

WAS BIG BOOZE FIND

SHERIFF DOWDEN UNCOVERS 708 PINTS OF BOOTLEG WHISKEY.

FOUND AT BENGE PLACE

Man Detained Says That Strangers Left It in Cave at His Home Early This Morning.

A wagon drove up to the entrance to the court house shortly after noon today. It was driven by Sheriff John Dowden, accompanied by several deputies. They unloaded the contents, 708 pint bottles of choice red liquor and proceeded to store them in the vault in the sheriff's office. A man wearing a white slouch hat, who accompanied the party, was given a seat in the office until the unloading had been finished.

"What's all the excitement about," a reporter asked Sheriff Dowden, after he had finished unloading and storing the booze.

"We don't know yet," the sheriff replied, "we haven't ferreted it out."

The man in the worn white slouch hat was approached. He said his name was Frank Benge and that he lived on the McGettigan Bros. farm six miles northwest of Maryville. This morning, he claims two men drove into his yard and began to unload stuff from a car, carrying it into a cave near the house. Believing that the owners of the place had sent something to be put away he paid little attention to them. They came in a car, he said, bearing an Iowa license number and left the place shortly after nine o'clock. Sheriff Dowden came along a little later and took possession of the booze and Benge and brought them to the city.

Benge will be detained in an effort to locate the owners of the confiscated contraband liquor.

BATTLE ON AISNE-MARNE IN DEADLOCK

ARMIES OF CROWN PRINCE TOO EXHAUSTED TO RENEW THE DRIVE TO PARIS

WITH EVERY ADVANCE HUNS ARE REPULSED

Big Gun Firing Has Started In the Rheims Region and Military Experts Look for the Next Blow to Be Struck There

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Paris, June 6.—For the time being the battle on the Aisne-Marne front has settled down to a deadlock, the xhausted armies of the German crown prince being unable to renew their efforts to break through to Paris except along the extreme northwestern end wher ethe Germans plunged forward south of Noyon and succeeded in forcing a passage of the Oise river. The French immediately launched a counter attack and the Germans were rolled back, sustaining severe losses, leaving many prisoners in the hands of the French. In the absence of infantry operations along the southern flanks of the salient and along the Marne violent cannonading has broken out, the big gun firing being especially heavy in the region of Rheims, wheer some experts look for the next big battl eto begin.

Washington, June 6. — Many recent activities of the American expeditionary forces are detailed in the communique from General Pershing made public this afternoon. Among others was detailed the capture and holding of Chateau Thierry by machine gunners on May 31.

Paris, June 6.—Important local actions were continued on the Aisne-Marne battle front. The Germans succeeded in advancing following violent cannonading in the Moulin Sous-Touvent-Auteriches-Vingre sector, but the French immediately counter attacked and drove them back. One hundred and fifty Germans and many machine guns were captured. The attempted German turning movement to capture Ourscamps by attacking north of Montalagache was defeated. In the Villers-Cotterets district the Germans made three assaults, all of which broke down under French resistance. The French thrusts supported by tanks regained the ground and part of a railroad line on the Corcy-Longpont district.

Air fighting is intense over the whole front.

London, June 6.—Attempts by the Germans to raid the British trenches last night were repulsed, the war office announced today. The Germans sustained losses. There has been artillery activity in the sector of Strazelle. The Germans succeeded, however, in rushing the British post on the Boynelles sector.

Miss Mary Margaret Richey left this morning for St. Joseph, where she will visit her cousin, Miss Margery Trout.

DREAMS OF REALITY.

When I was just a little boy,
And all the world looked bright,
My one and only great desire
Was to show my strength and might.

I longed to be a soldier boy,
So that in the battle's fray
I could do some heroic act
And thereby save the day.

I could see myself with medals large
Upon my coat of blue,
And hear the people talking
Of the stunts that I could do.

I'm working here in Richfield,
Just wielding the lowly wrench
And I've forgotten all my dreams
Of blood-strewn field and trench.

Now I want to get the kaiser;
I want to "mix it" with the Hun,
And show the bloomin' beggars
I'm a regular son-of-a-gun.

Then when the war is over,
I want to be able to say
That I'm going back to freedom
And the good old U. S. A.

Grandma Talks About Babies

Has a large Circle of Listeners Who Profit by Her Wisdom and Experience.

In almost any community there is a grandma who knows Mother's Friend. Not only is she reminiscent of her own experience, but it was through her recommendation that so many expectant mothers derived the comfort and blessing of this famous remedy.

Mother's Friend is an external application prepared especially for expectant mothers after the formula of a noted family physician. It certainly has a wonderful effect in relieving tension brought about by expanding muscles, and is a most grateful encouragement to the woman awaiting motherhood.

The action of Mother's Friend makes the muscles free, pliant and responsive. When baby arrives they expand easily, and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally less.

Strain upon the nerves and ligaments is lessened and in place of a period of discomfort and consequent dread, it is a season of calm repose and happy anticipation.

Mother's Friend enables the mother to preserve her health and natural grace and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided the pain and suffering which more often than otherwise accompanies such an occasion when nature is unaided.

Write the Bradfield Regulator Co., Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their "Motherhood Book," so valuable to expectant mothers, and in the meantime do not by any chance fail to purchase a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort. Mother's Friend should be applied night and morning with the utmost regularity.

It costs some folks more to keep up appearances than it does to live.

We have quit guessing about the war; we don't know when it is going to end, but we are sure of one thing, that after it's all over hell will be the kaiser's permanent address.

There ought not to be any criticism of a preacher who swears, if he only adds—"and I say it reverently."

Observation: We have noticed that a full beard and a hedge fence stop a lot of dirt that might otherwise blow by.

Some homes have family rows, some have family fights; in others the members seldom speak to each other, and there are yet some that have family prayers. How is yours run?

Your sin may always find you out, but as long as you keep the police in the dark you are in no immediate danger.

So far as is known there are only two Maryville men who have not broken themselves of wearing a derby hat.

And here's a mighty good motto, too: Don't try to get through the day. Get through the work.

A single man can get out and put on a show and never learn what an ass he made of himself—but it's some different with a married man.

Confession: I confess that I could make a greater success at gardening if it wasn't that I find so blamed many fishing worms when spading the ground. Dige ever feel that way?

The prominence of some "prominent citizens" we know in this town is gained by their ability in making a motion to "appoint a committee."

TWO LEGENDS ABOUT RIVER

Both Concern Arizona Stream, but Only One Is Really Popular in the State.

The Hassayampa is an Arizona river which stands for the spirit of his native desert to the son of western Arizona. There are two legends connected with the waters of Hassayampa, one subscribed to by natives and the other by irreverent aliens. Both parties agree that the waters of this desert stream have powers surpassing the normal.

According to the native of Arizona, whosoever shall taste the waters of Hassayampa is thenceforward bound to the Arizona desert by ties stronger than bonds of steel. Drink once of the muggie current, and you must inevitably return to drink again. Wherever you may wander, in some quiet hour you will hear the Hassayampa calling, and whether you are in Cape Town or Hongkong or Port Said, you will forthwith take ship on the trail of another drink. That is why the Arizonians in foreign states and lands frequently band themselves into clubs called Hassayampa.

A look at the Hassayampa itself will convince the unprejudiced stranger that some magic power must reside in the waters, otherwise nobody would want a second drink.

The other legend of the Hassayampa is more often retailed by aliens, though occasionally a native will admit its prevalence and the existence of a certain amount of corroborative evidence. This legend affirms that whosoever takes a drink of Hassayampa water is thenceforward utterly and constitutionally incapable of telling the truth on any important matter. So firmly established did this belief become that at one period of Arizona history, instead of applying the short and ugly term to a man, they called him a "Hassayampa," which is a term certainly long and in the opinion of some persons beautiful.—Chicago News.

BEFORE DAYS OF PRINTING

People Then Employed Two Forms of Writing, the Manuscript and Cursive Hand.

The differences between script and print are to be referred to a date long before the invention of printing. We must not suppose that the ancient scribes, in writing papers of but temporary value, would labor to follow the same alphabet that the carver employed upon the monuments of stone destined for all time. As far back as records have been preserved there was in existence a cursive style of writing. Instances have been preserved abundantly in Pompeii of random remarks by the ordinary citizen scribbling idle sentiments upon the walls.

The alphabet of the monuments was commonly the model for the writers of formal literature, professional penmen who looked forward to the library preservation of the works upon which they were engaged. Business men used the cursive script, which was far more readily and correspondingly more rapidly written. The monumental and manuscript hand has served as the parent of the printed letter; the cursive hand is the ancestor of penmanship.

The American Boy and the War

Farm Craft Lessons for Boys Reserve Corps — By J. M. Huston, District Farm Agent

ARTICLE I.

No one can do more toward stanching the flow of blood and toward transfusing new blood into the veins of an over-ridden and depleted people than the American boy, providing he stays with the land and works as he never worked before. The actual fighting must be left to the soldier at the front; the work of keeping him in fighting shape must fall upon the shoulders of the masses of second line reserves at home.

Germany has been preparing for war for forty years. While the rest of the world worked to better industrial conditions, Germany silently schemed to dominate the world through conquest. What she meant to do can be seen in the countries of Belgium, France, Poland and Armenia, where men and women have been starved and murdered by the millions to make room for Germans. Unless we win this war we can expect to work along with the rest of the world for Germany.

The first question that naturally arises is, how can the boy on the farm, three thousand miles from the fighting front, do anything toward winning the war, especially when he has to do such common jobs as plowing, harrowing, feeding and following a mule down between two rows of corn? Every bushel of grain and every pound of meat counts now as never before. Who knows but that this war may last until the gun is no longer the deciding issue, but starvation and pestilence finally step in to settle the count in favor of the side best prepared to stand their ravages?

Naturally one says the farm boy can make more money by going into other enterprises. Certainly he can. How about the soldier? When a country is fighting for its life it is not a matter of money, but of defeating the enemy.

But is our country fighting for its existence? Our great-grandfathers won our independence in 1776. Our grandfathers made it "one and inseparable" in 1865. Isn't all the hard work done? And cannot we and our children take it easy for a while and get the good of what others have done? Must we win it all over again and must we fight to hold what we have won so long ago?

Listen, my boy, to the situation. A long time ago, while our forefathers were fighting in the Rebellion, a few Prussians of the Alexander and Caesar type, had a dream of conquering the world. And they went at it deliberately. They began on Denmark, calling on Austria to help, and took away some of Denmark's territory, Schleswig-Holstein. The Kingdom of Prussia, though little, became as strong and war-like. They proposed to their neighbors a federation, and that federation soon became the German empire, with the king of Prussia as emperor of Germany.

A two-months war in 1866 brought Austria-Hungary to its knees. Excellent terms of peace were given for these countries lie in the path of the plan which was slowly evolving in Germany.

In 1870 a forged telegram brought France into war with them. Easy—they wanted the iron mines of Alsace and Lorraine. Taken unawares, France in less than six months was obliged to give up her mines and pay over to Germany a billion francs in money, or more than enough to pay her own defeat.

It was then that Bismarck said, "For a few years war must be the chief industry of Germany, and every war must pay for itself with a profit." Bernhardi wrote of Germany and the "next war," which he said should be "deliberately provoked," at a time convenient to Germany. Yet we were all too busy following peaceful occupations to understand what they meant.

In 1900, when the kaiser sent his troops to China to help quell the Boxer uprising, he said: "No mercy will be shown; no prisoners will be taken. Your deeds must be such that a hundred years from now no Chinaman will dare look askance at a German." Even then all the world talked of German "kultur" and of peace.

All the while Germany was getting ready for the "next war" and drinking toasts to "Der Tag" (The Day). Not only that, but definite plans were already made. The time for the "next war" was well chosen and decided upon at the Potsdam conference three weeks before the murder of the archduke.

Germany headed west, but her eyes were upon the east. It is now known that the object of the war was not France, but Poland, Roumania, Servia, Armenia and to get a hand on Turkey so as to extend German influence to the Persian Gulf. While we were thinking of France and Belgium, Germany had already accomplished what she started out to do. She has control of all southeastern Europe and Asia Minor, cutting the eastern world in two and separating Europe from Asia.

And now she wants peace. Yes, she wants it desperately. She has gained all she hoped to gain in this war. She needs a rest. Then she will take France, leaving England and America for future wars—for war ings to be Germany's chief occupation for a hundred years.

Germany did not expect to take the world at once, but to take part at a time and "bleed them white," as she has done Belgium, Poland and Armenia. And just so has she threatened to bleed France, England and America, and just so will she if she gets out of this war with her army. That is why a peace now is a victory for Germany, giving her a chance to attack us at her convenience. That is why America is fighting for her life today, and that is why, if we do not conquer now, we will some day be a province of Germany. That is why the German army must be dissolved.

The only time to fight is right now. It is the last chance. The only way to win is by fighting a sane man, and raising food as one man to sustain the men actually fighting. That is why the boy on the farm has so go od a chance to help.

The government, realizing the labor difficulty, has called for help upon the boys in the high schools and in non-essential occupations, and has organized the United States Boys' Working Reserve. It is their patriotic duty to learn the farming processes and to get their coats off, roll up their sleeves and get into the game for all they are worth, as they have never worked before.

MOTOR TRUCKS CARRIERS

A. C. McKibben of State Higwhay Commission, Would Establish Freight, Express and Passenger Service.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

St. Lopis, Mo., June 6.—A. C. McKibben of St. Louis County, secretary of the State Highway Commission and representative of Missouri at the conference of the transportation committee of the national council of defense, is on his was to Washington to impress upon the government the value of using motor trucks as much as possible in relieving the congestion of the railroads. The conference will be in session two days.

"The motor trucks are doing a great service today," Mr. McKibben said, "in the rural districts, but the railroads are not yet co-operating with this line of service. All over the state where there are passabile roads, these trucks are doing their part in moving freight and express matter, and even in handling passengers. They have no difficulty in obtaining business one way, but very often they must return empty. This is a feature the conference will seek to remedy.

"The government has already established a transportation service for trucks for hauling freight, express and even passengers, between Springfield, Marshall, Sedalia and Warsaw. This covers a considerable territory. The private enterprises of this character are numerous, but so far they have not had the sanction of the government. For short hauls the trucks can beat the railroads on cheap rates, and when the industry is extended, this will mean a great deal."

Mr. McKibben said that for one year to come, at least, the policy of the commission would be to use the road funds as much as possible for grading, ditching and oiling highways, rather than making macadam roads. The government has placed an embargo on the issuance of road improvement bonds to the extent of $100,000 to a county, and this will obviate the possibility of large contracts for solid highways.

There are 11,300 miles of improved highways between the various county seats of the state, and these are all suitable for auto travel. There are between seven and eight thousand miles of either permanently improved, or partially improved highways and 108,000 miles of dirt roads.

The state now has more than $1,500,000 ready for road improvements. The number of automobiles has increased to 163,201 up to the present time and will probably reach 200,000 by the close of the year.

As to the possibility of the automobiles and automobile trucks becoming service rivals of the railroads in the transportation of freight, passengers and express matter, McKibben said that this was a problem for the future, with many pending contingencies. As railroad rates go higher, the possibilities of the auto truck will greatly increase, in his opinion. These questions will work this own salvation, in time, he said.

Women Prepare

Hundreds of women in Missouri have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This temeprance medicine, though started nearly half a century ago, sells most widely today. It can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid (tablets 60c), and every woman who suffers from backache, headache, nervousness, should take this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce's. It is prepared from nature's roots and herbs and does not contain a particle of alcohol or any narcotic. It's not a secret prescription, for the ingredients are printed on wrapper. Send 10c for trial package to Dr. V. M. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—"Several years ago I was cured by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. At that time I suffered with bearing-down pains, was nervous and tired all the time. Just three bottles of 'Prescription' cured me entirely and I have been in splendid health ever since."—MRS. S. J. MUNDY, 3503 E. 18th Street.

ST. JOSEPH, MO.—"During expectancy I became all run-down, weak and nervous. At times I would faint away and lie in these spells for two or three hours. I took medicine but kept getting worse all the time. I decided to try 'Favorite Prescription,' for which I shall always be thankful. It not only built me up in good health, but saved my child. I had a fine baby; it weighed eleven pounds and has always been a healthy child."—Mrs. FLOSSIE WALDEN, 2824 S. 19th St.

GET MEN FOR THE BORDER

United State to be Ready to Act Should the Germans Succeed in Starting Trouble.

The Muskogee Times-Democrat sees in the recruiting of men for Mexican border service at this time believing that the government is only preparing to meet an emergency which may arise from what is known to be a German attempt to bring an open rupture between the American and Mexican states. The Democrat comments as follows:

Along with thousands of other people the Times-Democrat was unable to fathom the reason of the war department in keeping the original military units from Oklahoma and Texas in the southern camps while new recruits were brought in by the thousands and after a few months training sent across. Now we begin to understand. The dispatches Saturday announcing that Mexico had broken relations with Cuba were illuminating. This is clearly a German effort to cause an open rupture between the United States and Mexico and thereby shut off the great Mexican oil supply from the allies. Washington probably had information of this break many months ago. If it becomes necessary to send troops into Mexico again, whether they like it or not, certainly the experienced and seasoned Oklahoma and Texas troops who have been in Mexico before would be more effective than other troops who have had no experience. Of course, Oklahoma troops, we refer, to the old Oklahoma National Guard, would rather go to France than to Mexico, but the latest developments in Mexico is certain to throw some light on why Company F has been in Texas two years instead of France.

BLAGG SPEAKS AT HOPKINS

The Hopkins Journal Writes of the Fine Address by Maryville Lawyer

Editor W. L. (Deacon) Moorhead, in the Hopkins Journal this week, had the following about the address of W. A. Blagg, delivered at Hopkins on Decoration Day:

"Hon. Wesley Blagg of Maryville was introduced and made one of the most touching and telling talks ever made here on an occasion of this kind. He has a son in France and his talk came from his heart, his words burning into the very souls of his hearers.

He not only paid tribute to the heroes of former wars, but spoke of the millions of young men now being sent to the front to defend the country from Prussian tyranny, many of whom will be called upon to make the supreme sacrifice—that of giving up their lives in winning the war. 'And we are going to win,' declared the speaker. 'We know not when nor at what cost, but right will finally triumph and victory must be ours. Like thes et of the sail guides the bark, the set of the Nation's soul makes victory certain, and with this government cemented together in national unity the hoped-for goal cannot be far away.' Mr. Blagg talked for more than an hour and held the closest attention of the large audience, all hoping this may not be the last time that Hopkins will be permitted to listen to this eloquent and forceful speaker."

They are given until June 1, 1918 to make application to the license division of the Food Administration, for the necessary permit to continue their business.

Soldier's Letters

NODAWAY BOY LIKES FRANCE.

Jennings B. Jackson Writes of Trip Over-seas and New Location.

The following letter has been received from Jennings B. Jackson with the 147th Field Artillery now in France, by his brother, Frank Jackson of Maryville:

Friday, May 10, 1918.

Dear Brother and Sister:

I received your welcome letter a couple of days ago and have neglected answer until this morning, and now I must write. I am feeling fine and I hope this finds you and all the other folks all O. K. Haven't been working very hard now for a couple of days so think a little work this morning would do me good. How is the weather over there now. It has been pretty nice here until the last few days and it has been raining.

We have been having some time getting settled. We had quite a time coming over and we have had quite a bit of train riding since we got on land. We had a swell boat to come over in. It was just a new boat, had been a passenger boat on the Pacific Coast, and sure was nice. It sure had some speed, too. Could make about 30 miles an hour, but we didn't travel very fast only the first two days. The 4th Co. was the last to get off the boat. The rest got off a couple of days before we did, and we sure fed fine after they got off. Everything good to eat and lots of room to run around in. We got off the boat in the morning and got on the train that evening. Got back to the regiment the third evening. Most all of the old Co. M men were gone from there. We were there a few days and a bunch out of headquarters was sent down here to the first batallion. We have quite a time down here. We just got in a bunch of American horses yesterday. We have been using the French horses. This sure is some town. We have quite a time trying to talk to the people here. It's a nice big town and there aren't many soldiers here, so we can have lots of fun.

We had a fine Easter dinner there in Camp Hill. It was our last Sunday there. I had to go up and see my little nurse three times that week before we left, so you see I was pretty busy.

Well, there isn't very much news I can write, so I guess I had better close. Hoping to hear from you soon.

Lots of love to all.

JENNINGS.

My address is: Pvt. Jennings B. Jackson, Hdqtrs. Co., 147th F. A., American E. F., France.

MONEY.

Money doesn't do me any good. I can't spend it on myself. Money has no value, anyway. It is merely a transmitter, like electricity. I try to keep it moving as fast as I can, for the best interests of everybody concerned. A man can't afford to look out for himself at the expense of anyone else, because anything that hurts the other man is bound to hurt you in the end the same way.—Henry Ford.

State Medical Committee Advises Against Watching Sun Eclipse Without Them.

On June 8 there will be an almost total eclipse of the sun, visible in this section.

Naturally, such an event is going to attract the curious attention of every man, woman and child.

The Committee for the Prevention of Blindness of the Missouri State Medical Association has taken this opportunity to warn all people against looking at the sun excepting through smoked glass or developed photographic film, and this applies when only a small rim of the sun is visible.

In Europe, during the year 1912, when an eclipse of the sun occurred, 3,500 cases of eclipse blindness were reported.

Most of the cases occurring in 1912 resulted from viewing the sun after it had begun to emerge from its eclipse. The people who had used smoked glasses during the progress of the eclipse did not realize the danger of looking at the sun as it emerged. The danger, however, was great as looking at the whole sun.

It is urgently requested that all exercise the precaution of not viewing the eclipse at any stage excepting through a smoked glass or a developed photo film.

Bedison church will give an ice cream and strawberry social Saturday night. Proceeds will go to Sunday School work and Red Cross auxiliary. —Adv.

NO ENTRIES ON G.O.P. TICKET

So Far No Republican Candidate Has Filed for a County Job, But There Is Yet Time Left.

The time for filing as candidates for county offices will expire at midnight tonight, according to the opinion of County Clerk Fred Yeomans. Up to a late hour this afternoon not a Republican had filed for a county office, but it is rumored in political circles that they will file a full county ticket, at the last minute

Some of the Republicans discussed as candidates are L. C. Gann for Recorder, Fred W. Smith for county clerk, Judge E. T. Bailey of Elmo for presiding judge, Charles E. Stilwell for prosecuting attorney, Judge J. H. Sayler for probate judge. It is said W. E. Goforth will not consent to make the race for recorder.

On the Democratic ticket, the only vacancy on the ticket was for recorder and it is thought Dan R. Baker, the present incumbent, will file late this afternoon.

as members of the board of directors."

B. F. Swaggard, who acquires a large share of the fair association stock, is one of the best known horsemen in the west, owning a number of top-notcher harness and saddle horses. He was formerly a resident of Sweet Springs, Mo., in Saline county, where he engaged extensively in farming. Mr. Swaggard will attend the fair in the capacity of superintendent of speed.

William Hanecy is well known in Maryville, having for the past two years been in charge of the track events at the fair and with a number of horses in training here is a frequent visitor. He is a member of the Hanecy Music Compan yof St. Joseph. Believing that the annual fair should be a community affair and realizing the possibilities of Nodaway county and this section of the state in affording an event second to none, Mr. Hanecy succeeded in interesting his friend and after negotiations that began last fall succeeded in effecting a transfer of the stock.

Following a meeting that will be held today several other directors from among the stockholders will be added to the board of directors and work will start at once to get matters in shape for the annual fall fair announced to be held September 2 to 7.

A. O. Mason will occupy the residence property at the fair grounds for a short time until he can make arrangements to move elsewhere. Mr. Mason said this morning he would remain a resident of Maryville and expected to devote his time to looking after his farms. "A press of other business," he said, "caused me to sell my stock in the fair association, but I am going to do all I can to help make it a success."

TO CONSERVE AFTER HARVEST

New Crop Should Not Mean Unlimited Use of Wheat, Food Administrator Points Out

Columbia, June 6.—Warning that even if our wheat harvest should be no anticipation of unlimited wheat bread until the war is over, was sounded in a telegram from Herbert Hoover to F. B. Mumford, federal food administrator for Missouri, today. It will be the first duty of the American people to place every grain they can save into storage against possible bad years ahead, he said. Some of the most inconvenient restrictions no doubt can be remedied, he said, with the arrival of a large harvest, but he added that if we are honest with ourselves will will maintain restrictions requiring the use of some substitutes, both domestic and commercial.

Declaring further conservation until the new crop comes in is absolutely essential and that present supplies of wheat would permit only one-third our normal consumption for the next two months, Mr. Hoover declares that even when new supplies come in we will continue the requirements of high milling extraction and the elimination of the non-essential use of and waste in flour and bread.

"It is worth remembering," said the former food administrator, "that the famine in Egypt 8,000 years ago was saved by a little government foresight, and it does not require any dream to anticipate that so long as the war lasts with its increasing drafts for soldiers and munition workers, the world will steadily produce less food. If we are wise, a great harvest will mean the willing building up of great national reserves."

EXPECT RUSH OF CANDIDATES

With Last Day for Filing State Secretary Expects Business to Pick Up — Clark With Opposition

Jefferson City, June 6.—Today is the last day for filing of candidacy for the state primary and a belated rush is expected in the office of Secretary of State John Sullivan.

John S. Leahy of St. Louis has filed for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

Other filing received included K. C. Webber of Farmington for the Republican nomination for congress in the Thirteenthe district and Wm. W. Cox of St. Louis for the Socialist Labor nomination for United States senator.

So far there is no filing against Champ Clark for congress in the Ninth district either by Democrats or Republicans.

There has up to this time been no filing of a Republican for congress in the Eighth district, the Shackleford district, but the understanding is that either W. C. Irwin of Jefferson City, Sid Roach of Camden county or N. T. Gentry of Columbia will file at the last moment.

FOLK FILES HIS DECLARATION IN SENATE CONTEST

FORMER GOVERNOR URGES PRO-GERMANS TO OPPOSE HIS FIGHT FOR TOGA.

PLATFORM IS ALL AMERICAN

In announcing his candidacy for United States senator Former Governor Folk said:

"The demand from every part of the State has become so strong as to amount to an imperative duty upon me to give such service in the senate as I may, unless the rendering of such service will conflict with a higher duty elsewhere. I will not permit anything to divert or change the course I have mapped out to do my utmost to free St. Louis, Kansas City and Missouri from the chains of unjust rate discrimination. This fight will be kept up until it is won.

"The arbitrary case was set for May 6th, and the legal work in connection with the presentation of the case had been completed at that time. At the request of the railroads it was postponed by the Interstate Commerce Commission until June 3, and the case is now thoroughly prepared for presentation then. It will take some five or six days for the hearing. Permitting the use of my name in connection with the senatorship will not interfere in any way with this case.

"The first and highest duty of Americans is to win the war, and win it speedily and worthily. President Wilson is the leader not only of America, but of the democracy of the world. He should be upheld by all true Americans, and I shall continue to give him whole-hearted and absolute support. He is our leader, and behind him are the mighty hosts of America, ready to serve and to sacrifice for the glory of the republic.

"The war must not end until it has been won. It will take every man and every dollar in America. The millions of American boys who have answered to the Nation's call should be sustained with the knowledge that the people of America are with them heart and soul. Any man who is not for the United States in this war must be counted as disloyal and against the United States. The time has come to draw the line between the loyal American and the pro-Hun. There is no place in the Democratic party of Missouri for those who are not 100 per cent Americans. I do not want their votes or their support. I prefer their opposition to their good will. If I cannot be elected without them, I do not want to be elected at all.

"The great domestic question, both during the war and after the war, is that of transportation. During the next two years there will be a readjustment of rates and some kind of solution of the railroad and waterways questions. If, by reason of my experience as chief counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission for four years, the people think I can be of special service in this connection as a United States senator, I am willing to help them and the President in any way I possibly can. In the United States Senate I shall complete the work of giving St. Louis, Kansas City and Missouri the justice and equality of rates to which they are entitled, and in bringing about the utilization of our waterways under governmental operation and financed by the Government as are the railroad transportation agencies under Federal control. If the Government finances the railroads, which it does not own, it should finance the waterways which it does own.

"Later on, in an address at St. Joseph, I shall discuss more fully the principles that shall guide me in the service I am asked to render."

The following biographical sketch is taken from "Who's Who in America":

Joseph W. Folk was Circuit Attorney of St. Louis from 1900 to 1904, and exposed a vast amount of political and official corruption, and prosecuted numerous bribery cases, which attracted nation-wide attention. He was elected Governor of Missouri in 1905, carrying the State on the Democratic ticket by a majority of 30,000, although the Republican national ticket headed by Theodore Roosevelt carried the State by 25,000. He enforced the liquor laws, suppressed racetrack gambling and winerooms; was the author of the Missouri Anti-Lobby Law, Initiative and Referendum, Compulsory Educational Lw, and the Parole Law.

He was appointed solicitor, United States Department of State, by President Wilson September 22, 1913; selected as chief counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission March 1, 1914. In this capacity he conducted investigations of the New Haven, Rock Island, Louisville & Nashville and other railroads, and appeared as counsel for the commission in numerous cases before the United States Supreme Court. On March 1, 1918, he was selected as general counsel of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and special counsel in the case involving the arbitrary charge on traffic crossing the bridge from East St. Louis to St. Louis.

Headquarters Opened.

Headquarters have been opened by Governor Folk's friends in the Equitable Building, St. Louis, with Ewing Y. Mitchell, of Springfield, as manager.

Former Barnard Pastor of the M. E. Church Takes Up War Worn With Red Triangle—Year at Lancaster

The Democrat-Forum is in receipt of a letter from J. H. Thompson of Lancaster, Mo., former pastor of the M. E. church at Barnard, and well known in Maryville, in which he advised that he has volunteered for Red Triangle work in connection with the war work of the Y. M. C. A., and having been accepted is awaiting assignment to a cantonment. In his letter Rev. Thompson says:

"The War Council will pay my expenses for four weeks training at Estes Park, Colo., beginning July 25, after which I will go immedately into the work somewhere. I have had a remarkable year here at Lancaster. Since coming last October I have put on $1500 in repairs on the parsonage, completely renovating it, and making it down to date and modern, with furnace and other necessities; have put a new wfurnace on heating plant in the church and a new piano in the church, all of which is paid for except the piano. In addition to this I raised $2000 for the college endowment fund besides assisting in the same cause in Memphis, Kehoka, Granger, Glenwood and La Plata. During the recent third Liberty Loan I was speaker director for the entire county and our county raised a higher per cent than any other county, and in the Red Cross drive I again was made speaker director for the entire county and raised 250 per cent of our quota. Our quota for the county was $8000, and we raised about $20,000. The church and town are feeling it quite keenly that I am going away, but they feel there is a great field in war work for one who can give his time to it."

KANSAS FARM HANDS TO GET SO MUCH PER HOUR

Hays, Kans., June 6.—No mare will the Kansas hired man be compelled to get up in the dark at 3 a. m., feed the horses, milk the cows, carry swill and do other farm chores before breakfast. Nor will he have to do the same chores after a twelve or fourteen-hour day in the field.

Western Kansas farmers, following a conference with E. E. Frizzell, state farm labor commissioner, have agreed they will pay by the hour instead of the day.

Eastern Kansas farmers have agreed to pay from thirty to fifty cents an hour for farm work.

GEN. CROWDER TO MISSOURI

Provost Marshal, a Former Resident, Will Be Given Degree of L. L. D. at State University Today

Kansas City, June 6.—The man who did the most to make the selective draft a success, who proved it possible to register 10,000,000 men for military service in one day and who has carried out plans for putting large numbers of these men into service in France, is expected to be in Kansas City the latter part of this week.

The man is Provost Marshal General Enoch Crowder, native Missourian. His mother is Mrs. N. C. Crowder of this city. Miss Mary Crowder, a sister of the general, also resides here.

While in the west General Crowder will be given the degree of L. L. D. by the University of Missouri, of which he is an alumnus. The ceremony will take place today.

General Crowder was born and reared in Edinburgh, Mo., and received his first higher education at Grand River College. After completing his course there he taught for several years. While teaching in a little Missouri town he passed the examination for entrance into West Point. He was graduated from the national military school in 1881 and was sent to Fort Brown, Tex., where he began the study of law while performing military duties. A few years later, at the University of Missouri, General Crowder was granted the degree of L. L. B. He re-entered the military service and in 1895 he was raised to the rank of major and transferred to the judge advocate general's staff.

During the Japanese-Russian war General Crowder was senior observer for this country with the Japanese army. He was made judge advocate general upon his return to this country.

When war was declared and war department officials cast about for a master mind to supervise the draft, the higher authorities agreed unanimously upon the Missourian. His success has passed all expectations.

STILL ONE OF THEM

Veterans Always With the Boys in Spirit, Though They May Not March.

COMES the old-time feelin' at the beatin' o' the drum,
An' I'm sittin' in the sunlight an' a-watchin' of 'em come!
An' I seem rejuvenated!—see the old-time battle sky,
An' I'm one o' them same youngsters—with the boys a-marchin' by!

Don't they keep step fine!
An' I'd give the world to jine!
(They's lots o' grayhaired fellers that could form a battle line!)

Comes the old-time feelin' as I see 'em march along;
The winds that wave the old flag seem to sing a battle song!

An' the rifle on the rack there—must I see it with a sigh,
My war days gone forever, an' the boys a-marchin' by?

Keepin' step so fine—
How it thrills this heart o' mine!
(An' lots o' grayhaired fellers that would form a battle line!)

It isn't to the old brigades they're handin' out the guns,
Though when it comes to trouble we are all the country's sons!
An' that's why I'm a-sayin', when the time's drawin' nigh,
I'm one o' them same youngsters—with the boys a-marchin' by!

Don't they keep step fine!
An' I'd give the world to jine!
(They's lots o' grayhaired fellers that would leap to battle line!)
—Frank L. Stanton, in the Atlanta Constitution.

NOTHING SAFE FROM THEM

Gen. Hancock Evidently Had High Opinion of the Foraging Abilities of the Nineteenth Maine.

"There is some doubt as to what part the Nineteenth Maine played in the war," remarked a veteran of that regiment. "The fact is, the Nineteenth ate up the Southern Confederacy. They stole pigs, robbed hen roosts, cleaned out orchards and cellars and foraged the country so thoroughly that the enemy had nothing left to feed on, and so lay down and died."

Then Al Wells of the same regiment took up the thread of the story:

"We were sweeping along one day, dining on the fat of the land, as usual. Another troop was ahead, and between them and us rode General Hancock. As the general was passing one plantation, the aged proprietor came out and stopped the general's party.

"General," said he, "I want some sort of safeguard. Those troops that have just gone by stole my pigs, lifted my hen roosts and emptied my cellar."

"I'm sorry," said Hancock.

"Yes," replied the old man, "they stole everything but my hope of immortality. Thank God! none of them can steal that."

"Don't be too sure about that," retorted the general. "The Nineteenth Maine is coming next."

The Heroic Dead.

And so Memorial day is here again, and we lift up our eyes and behold the hosts gathering all over this land and marching to the cemeteries. They are bringing flowers—wreaths and pillows and crosses. These are tokens of a nation's love and emblems of a nation's gratitude. We honor the Northern and the Southern dead today, and with one hand put a wreath on the Federal, while with the other we put a similar wreath on the Confederate graves.—Christian Advocate.

IN LIBERTY'S NAME

Memorial Day Finds the Nation Battling for Freedom of the Whole World.

MEMORIAL DAY was born of a war fought that this nation, under God, should have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, for the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth."

A half a century and more has passed since that immortal utterance. Now the nation is again in arms, to fight that "the world may be made safe for democracy."

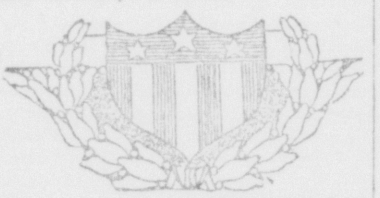
Then, the young republic, struggling upward toward its vision of freedom, learned through the bitter travail of Civil war that the nation could not exist half slave and half free. The vision has broadened with the widening years. Then it was for the freedom of a race the nation fought. Now the sword is drawn for the imperiled liberty of the world.

The natal day of our independence we have been wont to celebrate with loud acclaim and vaunting pride. Memorial day ever has been our time for solemn contemplation. Another Memorial day is at hand, and as America lays its flowers on the graves of its soldier dead, it hears again that revered voice from the slopes of Gettysburg bidding us to be not unmindful that "it is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

A beautiful, a poetic symbolism Memorial day had come to be to us: The people who walk with slow steps in the quiet cemeteries, the children in their white dresses who with loving hands place wreaths "alike for the friend and the foe," the venerable men who are the links that bind us to an age long gone, and, as we believed, forever gone, when nation warred with nation and blood lust grew in hearts that had thrilled at the sight of the same flag.

And now with what a new and sudden significance has Memorial day been vested. With what different thought will they go "lovingly laden with flowers." How much more reverently than in those conventional days that already seem so far away will the little flags be planted on each patriot mound. And who is there, when taps, clear and soft as a benediction, is sounded for those who "dream of battlefields no more," will not remember that on a neighboring hill on the morrow from that same silvery bugle will leap the reveille for another generation of freedom's soldiers?

If solemn memories of the past and earnest thought for the future bring that new birth of freedom, who shall say that those have died in vain for whom flowers will be spread in far Memorial days to come?



TRIBUTE TO PHIL KEARNY

Comte De Paris Knew and Loved Famous Soldier Who Gave His Life for His Country.

It was after the review that I made the personal acquaintance of the officers with whom I was to have the good fortune to fight for a cause which was already dear to me. All made me cordially welcome, but it was with Kearny that I found myself most at home. He it was who could speak to me of the French army in Algeria in 1840 and of the memories left by my family in that country. He did so in terms which deeply touched the heart of the exile, the son of the Duc d'Orleans. Kearny had participated in one of those campaigns on African ground which brought out strongly the merits of the French soldier. He had also associated himself with the triumphs of France in the Italian campaign of 1859.

His abrupt speech and imperious manner denoted a proud disposition, and a character incapable of flattery or of dissimulation. But though at first his manner was not always fitted to attract, one soon learned to appreciate the noble qualities of his heart, the firmness of his will, the accuracy of his judgment, the truthfulness and grandeur of his soul.

If he did not spare his soldiers at the decisive moment, he spared himself still less, and by his example obtained from his followers truly heroic efforts. —Philippe, Comte de Paris, in The Century.

IN MEMORY

The flags are flown half-mast today,
The bugle's note is still;
We celebrate the fame of those
Who rest upon the hill.
They fought and conquered; honor be
To those who bravely died
That freedom might prevail with us,
And peace with us abide.

MOVIES MUST DRIP GLOOM

Picture Dramas That Have Happy Endings Can Never Attain Popularity in Russia.

Four and five-act movie dramas of the highly emotional and sentimental kind are popular in Russia. Cowboy activities, murders and burglaries do not appeal to these audiences. Rough comedy is wasted even on the cheapest Russian audience. They do not understand it.

American pictures, as a rule, do not appeal to the Russian taste. They want a drama woven usually around the "eternal triangle;" the men must be ardent lovers, and the women weak but noble.

A weeping mother or the deathbed of a beloved father is always very impressive. There must be a death in the drama, preferably the suicide of hero or heroine, with the other one going into the cloister at the end. The ideal picture play for Russian popular audiences must not, under any circumstances, have a happy ending.

The Russians use a great deal of descriptive and explanatory material on the films in showing their own dramas. They depend upon it largely for the "action." They do not care nearly so much for action in the pictures as for postures indicating emotions. Amatory and deathbed scenes should always be photographed to the last detail, but nearly everything else may be written and read.

IN DAYS OF PONY EXPRESS

Service, of Course, Would Be Laughed at Now, But Was Really Remarkable Then.

The pony express, a romantic feature of the West of that day, was part of a mail line from New York to San Francisco. Between St. Joseph, Mo., the western terminus of the railway, and Sacramento, the distance was traversed by horsemen mounted on swift and durable ponies, each of which traveled sixty miles, and then turned over his mail bags to another.

The weight carried was not to exceed ten pounds, and the charge was $5 in gold for each quarter of an ounce.

A letter or parcel weighing an ounce, now carried for 3 cents, cost $20 in the days of the pony express. By the aid of the pony carriers the distance between New York and San Francisco was covered in 14 days, a truly remarkable performance, considering the vast distance and the character of the country traversed by the brave riders. The horsemen were in constant danger in many sections of the route from hostile Indians, but they were well paid, their salary being $1,200 a month. The pony express lasted two years, being abandoned when the telegraph line across the continent was completed.

How Do Men Break Down?

Be assured that there is no chance of your breaking down—although there will be times when you will try to fool yourself with this idea. This thought of breaking down indeed is one of the illusions of mediocrity. It is the excuse which every lazy man presents to himself. It is moral astigmatism. The great fact is that men do not break down from overwork so much as is commonly supposed. As they go upward in the scale of increased activity, increased responsibility only acts upon them as a natural stimulant and carries them along. If hard work and worry killed men so easily, most of the successful business men of America would be dead already. No! What kills men is due more to what they take into their stomachs rather than what they take into their minds.—Physical Culture.

When Sick, Go to a "Vet."

"Some of the best medicines for people are dog medicines," said a physician.

"You see, all sorts of remedies are prescribed for human complaints, and sometimes they are beneficial. Many people have faith in patent medicines, which may be more or less justified.

"But a dog medicine is very sure to be a good thing. It wouldn't sell if it wasn't. And what is good for a dog is likely to be good for a human being—supposing that he really knows what is the matter with him.

"A doctor who started in business with no other equipment than a dozen prescriptions representing first-class dog medicines (supposing him to be a fair diagnostician) ought to make a fair professional success."

Famous Military Commanders.

Napoleon regarded Wellington as able, but lucky. He considered Tilly and Wallenstein far better generals than Gustaf Adolf. Turenne he placed far in advance of Frederick the Great. "If I had a man like Turenne as my second in command during my campaigns," he said, "I should now be master of the world." Hannibal, according to Plutarch, sometimes ranked Alexander, sometimes Pyrrhus as the foremost general of all time. Scipio he placed second. Himself he ranked but third or fourth. Posterity has modified his verdict to the advantage of his fame.

He Had Changed.

Mother—Why didn't you speak to that little boy who just passed?

Tommie—I don't know him, mama.

"Yes, you do know him. He's the little boy who just moved in next door to us. You were playing with him yesterday."

"Well, mama, if that's the same boy, he's over-washed today."

POPULAR PROVERBS IN CHINA

Many Sayings There Remarkably Like Those That Are Common In the West.

Some of the Chinese proverbs resemble ours, such as "Too many cooks spoil the dog" and "A man must beat his own drum and paddle his own canoe." But it is not necessary to assume that by any process they were copied from English proverbs. Similar sayings arise in different countries largely because the human mind works everywhere in the same way and has much the same material to work on. Of proverbs that are distinctly Chinese the following may be taken as samples: "Heaven is away up in the sky, but Soochow and Hangchow are here below;" "Change your old nature or you will be up a tree;" "When you are very angry do not go to law, and when you are very hungry do not make verses;" "An avaricious heart is like a snake trying to swallow an elephant;" "A boat straightens when it gets to a bridge;" "A deaf priest can hear a hen crow;" "After a typhoon there are pears to gather;" "A good drum does not need a heavy stick;" "When young do not go to Canton;" "A big chicken does not eat small rice;" "The load does not carry the ass;" "A stone lion does not fear the rain;" "A crazy man hopes the heavens will fall, but a poor man hopes for a riot."

GREAT IDEA FAILED TO WORK

Might Have Been All Right But for Unfortunate Happening Inventor Could Not Foresee.

The poets and others, mainly others, have sung of the virtues and blessings of sleep. No class of men guards sleep as carefully as the doctors.

Some one, with all the wise theories of advertising, decided to mail his little call for business to the medical men of Indianapolis. He spent a large sum getting up some real snappy stuff. He figured out all the psychology and personal appeal, with all of the big "I" stuff he could, and then some. He laid plans to reap a harvest. He did—not.

His good money went to the printer. More went to Uncle Sam for stamps. This wise ad writer put a special delivery stamp on each of his letters.

Result: The doctors of Indianapolis were awakened about 1 a. m. to sign for a bunch of printed matter. Every doctor seen says he tore up the booklet and with curses deposited the unread pieces in the waste paper basket or elsewhere.

With groans and harsh words the medical men went back to bed. It was a great idea.—Indianapolis News.

Pleasure.

Of course we are entitled to it. And we should take great pains to secure the fullest measure of it. So much may be taken for granted; the important question is, when and where shall we find pleasure? Sir Walter Bagshot gave his opinion that business is much more amusing than pleasure. I suppose he meant that a man who is in love with his work will get more real "fun" out of it than was ever gathered in so-called "places of amusement." Many of our pleasures do little more for us than kill time. They do not kill care, for it comes back again the next morning. He is a wise man who more and more learns to get his amusement out of the serious work he is doing. Then if he takes an occasional hour or day, for sport or the "passing show," he will come back to his real task in life to find his real entertainment. What finer art than that of having a good time in the thing which one has to do? Immensely wiser and more profoundly philosophical than the practice of planning for the good time afterward.—George Clarke Peck.

Cleaned Out.

"I want you to clean my shop window," said Mr. Jenkins to Muggins, the village champion window cleaner. "Do you think you can do it while I'm away for an hour or so?"

"Oh, yes; glad to do it," replied Muggins. And while Mr. Jenkins was out he set to work with a will and completed the job with a vengeance.

"Muggins," said Jenkins, entering the shop and glancing at the cleaner's work with approval, "you've done the job well. Why, there isn't a speck or scratch to be seen on the whole pane. Here's your money and an extra shilling."

"I'm glad you're satisfied with it," murmured Muggins pocketing the money somewhat nervously.

"Of course I am. Why, I can hardly believe there is any glass there at all, it looks so clear."

"Well, there ain't," said Muggins, moving toward the door. "Me and the ladder fell through the glass just after we started."—London Tit-Bits.

A "DASH" ENDED IN COURT

Well Known Auto Race Driver Finishes Second Best in Event Last Night on East Third Street.

Ray Dasbach otherwise "Dash," the well known auto racer who with E. M. Teel, dirt track champion, is entered in a ten mile contest for a purse of $1,000 on the fair grounds track Saturday, made a "dash" last night in which he came under the wire second best and instead of splitting a purse was forced to deplete his bank roll to the extent of several dollars. In the race in which "Dash" entered last night he did not know that he had an opponent until the finish. On a straightaway course up East Third St. the "speed demon" opened up his 200 h. p. Maxwell including the cut out. The hill was being negotiated quite rapidly, in fact more speed was generated than is usually shown by the depot jitneys that usually traverse this thoroughfare, the stop watch of police officer, Purl Edwards catching the streak at about 40 miles an hour. In police court at the finish, "Dash" declared it was not more than twenty—wasn't his gear there to show he couldn't make more? But the court would not be convinced and Dasbach paid the fine assessed by Mayor W. O. Garrett.

Fuel Problem in China.

Mrs. Calvin Wright, a missionary at Tangchowfu, tells of famine conditions in China. She writes, according to the Christian World: "Between us and the sea is a field of the tall grain we call gaoliang, which has been almost completely stripped of its leaves by the poor of the city, trying to find fuel for their kitchen fires. When we cut our millet the poor came out in families and the hired reapers seemed to take them all for Ruths, for each woman and child had 'handfuls of purpose' and went away with baskets and armfuls of grain. It seemed a pity to stop them, but the memory of 100 mouths to feed led us to send them word to wait until the reapers were done. So the gleaners sat in groups among the graves or by the roadside and waited. When the last stalk was cut and carried off they pounced upon the land and raked it bare. We had our lawn cleared of wild grass for nothing, as the gleaners were only too glad to pull up the roots for fuel."

America's Severest Winter.

A letter from John Winter to Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather describes graphically the severest winter and deepest snow ever recorded in America: "It held the north half of the continent in its grip. In the Illinois country in this winter of 1716 and 1717 the snow fell to a depth of six feet on the prairies and bided so long that all wild animal life, such as the larger game—buffalo, elk, deer and antelope—died. The buffalo and antelope never crossed the Mississippi river, and these two species (peculiarly plains and prairie ruminants) never came back, but elk and deer and other large game did."
